A scarcity of labor is reported from every section of the country, in spite of the fact that wages average higher and hours of service shorter than ever before in any country.

Prof. J. U. White, the Republican candidate for state superintendent of schools, is not only a successful teacher, but has been prominently connected with the school activities of the state, and a prominent foe of the school book trust and advocate of free text books. He is a man of energy, ideas and force, and his election will be in the interest of the public schools of the state. A vote for Professor White will be no mistake.

On the day the Democratic convention for the nomination of candidates for county offices was held, a prominent Democrat stated to a prominent Republican that voting for their nominee for collector would be the same as voting for a deputy. The Republican holds the Democratic nominee in high esteem personally and has implicit confidence in his honesty, but it is legitimate politics to consider a Democratic view of a Democratic candidate. Concerning the Republican candidate no derogatory statement can be made concerning his Republicanism, his fitness or his ability, and no adequate reason exists, within the knowledge of this paper, why any Republican should fail to give him undivided support. Vote for J. W. Reese.

There is a disposition in some quarters to find fault with the fish and game law passed by the last session of the state legislature, arising from a misapprehension of the law and its effects. The law is one of the most desirable enacted at that session, inasmuch as it tends to preserve the game for the benefit of the citizens of the state, rather than to permit its slaughter for the benefit of the pockets of the pot-hunter. It makes it possible for the farm owner to protect in the matter of the game upon his own premises, rather than to leave him at the mercy of trespassers, alien and otherwise. More than that, it pays in fees and penalties for its own enforcement. Missouri fish and game for Missourians, and the fish and game of each locality for the residents thereof, is a platform upon which we should all be able to stand, and Hon. J. M. DePuy should be recognized for his part in procuring its passage.

Mr. Bryan preserves his old characteristic of trying to make trouble without reason. His attitude during the war in Cuba and the Philippines is still fresh in mind. His latest is the declaration that this country should keep hands off in Cuba and let her people fight it through to a finish. He evidently forgets that under the Platt amendment we are under obligation to see that a stable government is preserved in the island. He is also unmindful that the lives and property of many American citizens in Cuba are jeopardized, and forgetful of the fact that though we should shirk or forget our duty, other nations will not forget it, or the formality of bringing in a bill of damages resulting from the conditions now existing. Mr. Bryan's trouble has always been the too facile use of his tongue. He is a master of plausible phrase-making, but analysis of his utterances shows him to be utterly void of statesmanship or the breadth and grasp of mind necessary to statesmanship.

Mr. S. J. Williams, of Kissees Mills, one of Taney's successful farmers and Stockmen who believes in the coming greatness of the county, made a business errand to the county capital Friday.

THE SCHOOL OF THE OZARKS

Corner Stone to be Laid October 6—Masonry and Quarrying Advancing.

The corner-stone laying has been dated for Saturday, October 6. The occasion will one of the most memorable in the history of the county, and none who can be present should miss the impressive ceremony.

John Hart is using ten men in the quarry, and has been able so far to keep in advance of the requirements for stone. He has the quarry in good shape and expects to be able to meet all demands.

Work on the wall of the basement is progressing in a satisfactory manner, upwards of a hundred perch of stone having been placed in position in spite of a day's delay for lack of lime.

President A. Y. Bestie has been in the field in the interest of the school for about ten days, his itinerary including Kansas City, St. Louis, St. Joseph and Waverley.

LIVE STOCK PAVILION.

Missouri State Fair Has Finest in the World.

The board of directors of the Missouri state fair has just completed the finest state fair live stock pavilion in the world. One or two fairs have large pavilions, but these are more in the order of mammal sheds, and for conveniences, modern improvements, architectural beauty, ventilation, seating capacity and elegance in finish and appearance, will not compare with the Missouri building.

This pavilion is 187 feet by 237, is built on solid concrete foundation, vitrified brick walls, tile roof and steel truss supports. The arena is 125 feet by 175, seating capacity, 12,000 with numerous stairways leading to the seats, and to the broad promenade above and in the rear. It is provided with number of commodious offices and committee rooms, elegant toilet rooms, is thoroughly ventilated and the acoustic properties are unsurpassed.

The arena is sufficiently large for the exhibition of buggy, carriage and saddle horses and equestrian rings, and a number of classes of cattle, exhibition horses, mules and jacks may be passed upon at one time. In addition to permanent seats steel frame settees will be provided for the arena when necessary to use it for public meetings or conventions, and when not so used the settees will be scattered over the grounds at convenient points to afford a resting place for visitors.

The new meat inspection labels are unique. They consist of a thin piece of gelatine or like substance about one and one quarter inches square. On the label is printed in blue letters something like: U. S. Inspected and Passed 267. The inspector simply slaps the little tag on the piece of meat and the moisture makes it stick. In a short time the gelatine dissolves and the blue letters remain on the meat, it can't be removed except by cutting it off and is absolutely harmless.

President Roosevelt's recent order in regard to simplified spelling has raised a storm of protest from those who think that the English language is in danger of being swallowed up in a flood of go-as-you-please orthography. As a matter of fact the changes suggested are largely concerned with those words which can be spelled in more than one way. Moreover the list is a small one and not likely to affect the rain which those who are not acquainted with the President's order think will follow.

The President is a busy man, but even the knowledge that he is does not deter people from writing to him from all over the country to redress all sorts of imaginary wrongs. A short time ago a woman in San Francisco, to whom the Red Cross Society had given some stockings wrote to him complaining that they had given her number 8 stockings when she wore a number 3 shoe.

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you!

Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home!

Fasten it tightly to your scalp!

You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing.

It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

Katie L. Masterson, plaintiff, vs.

W. S. Masterson, defendant.

At this day comes the plaintiff herein by her attorney, W. E. Adams, and her attorney, Katie L. Masterson,訴状, asking other things, that one defendant, W. S. Masterson, is not a resident of the state of Missouri.

Whereupon, it is ordered by the clerk in question, that said defendant be notified by publication that plaintiff has commenced a suit against him, the object and general nature of which is to secure a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, heretofore contracted, between plaintiff and defendant, and that unless the said W. S. Masterson be and appear at this court, at the next term thereof, to be begun and held at the court house in the town of Forsyth, on the 22nd day of October, 1906, to answer to the petition in said cause, or before the first day of said term, unless further time be given by the court, and answer or plead to the petition in said cause, the same will be taken as confessed, and judgment will be rendered accordingly.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law, in the Taney County Republican, a newspaper published in said county of Taney, for four weeks successively, the last insertion to be at least 30 days before the first day of said next October term of this court.
